GREAT IDEALS ARE YOUTH'S

'OLD HEARTS CALLOUS'

Initiators of New Eras All Were Young Men, Minister Points Out to Graduates.

"Great ideals belong to youth," the Rev. W. S. Woodhull, pastor of the First Methodist church, reminded graduates of the high school department of the State Teachers College, in a sermon delivered at the church last night.

The eleven members of the class were present at the sermon and had seats of honor near the front in the center section. They were in cap and gown.

The class sermon ushered in commencement week for the College High graduates. Commencement itself will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the auditorium of the State Teachers College, with the address by C. A. Phillips, director of the Elementary School at the University of Missouri and teacher of supervision courses. Mr. Phillips is a brother of Homer T. Phillips of the College here.

Musical numbers will be a vocal solo by Miss Mary Fields and a violin solo by Miss Laura Belt.

No one has been secured as yet to present the graduates with their diplomas. Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College, who had planned to award them, will not be able to do so as he is recovering from an automobile accident.

The junior class is planning a social for the senior class later in the week.

The high school Alumni Banquet will be held Wednesday evening at the Frank Smart home.

Youth Sees the Vision.

"Hearts as well as hands grow calloused with the passing of the years," the Reverend Mr. Woodhull said in his sermon. "Eyes both of body and soul grow dim with increasing age, and ears grow slow of hearing. But young hearts are sensitive to the present sin and to possible new righteousness. Young eyes can see the vision of a more glorious future. Young ears can hear the call of the 'far off, divine event toward which the whole creation moves. The initiators of new eras, Abraham, Moses, Paul, Jesus, were all young men.

"Common ideals may arise in the midst of prosperous happiness. But the Ideal Glorious must be born out of heartbreak. We must be shaken from the illusion that material good is solid and that life as it is stands secure before we can catch the vision of the things that being spiritual abide forever.

"The seer of the great ideal must also be torturingly sensitive to the evil of the present situation. The poverty, the grief, the oppression, the sin of the present age must cry aloud through him before he can even see the larger age to be entered as a promised land of peace and brotherhood.

God in Every Ideal.

"God must be in the midst of every great ideal. The intellectual atheist cannot be an idealist. His motto by all logic must be 'Let us eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die.' The practical atheist who merely dismisses God from his consideration, shuts out with him any high or worthy visions. The religious atheist who merely bows to God in formal worship and passes on cannot be sincere in the pursuit of any noble purpose of moment.

"Only the prophet who sees God at his side can stand the long, slow struggle to convince and to lead blind, deaf, faint-hearted men to an understanding of the things that belong to the spirit. Others will surrender the battle or never really begin it.

"To lose one's early dream is always a tragedy of bitterness. But not to dream at all of high and holy accomplishment, to be satisfied with the beastly occupation of eating, drinking and sleeping, while not so bitter, is measurelessly more terrible."

Bereaved Pet Snake Owner Gets Sympathy

One Friend of Deputy Sheriff Offers to Replace Garter Snake With a Rattler.

Many calls of sympathy were extended to Augustus Romasser Saturday evening over the loss of his alleged pet snake.

Mr. Romasser said today he had about a dozen telephone calls after the Democrat-Forum was distributed Saturday. Among the sympathizers were three women. Some offered to replace the loss and one even volunteered to furnish him with a four-foot rattlesnake.

But Mr. Romasser said training of snakes has to start when they are young.

PETER NOBLET, GRAHAM, DEAD

CIVIL WAR VETERAN SUCCUMBS TO INFIRMITIES OF AGE.

SERVICES TOMORROW

Peter Noblet, 89 years old, who probably had lived in Nodaway county longer than any other living person, died at his home in Graham at 9:39 o'clock last night. Mr. Noblet moved to the Graham vicinity at the close of the Civil War and had lived there since. He was a native of Marine City, Mich.

Mr. Noblet suffered the complications of old age. He was injured in the Civil War, when he lost the sight of one eye. The wound never healed and he suffered from it for many years.

Mr. Noblet was a former township trustee, constable and justice of the peace. He was active in politics and was interested in political affairs to the last. In his earlier years he farmed south of Graham, but he retired years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Noblet celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary two years ago last October.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Louisa Noblet, and six children: John A. Noblet, Pocatello, Idaho; Robert L. Noblet, Reed Noblet, and Frazier Noblet, Graham; Mrs. J. S. Hitchcock, Clarinda, Ia.; and Mrs. F. H. Merriam, Hiawatha Kan. All of the children are here except John A. Noblet of Pocatello. Mrs. Charles Williams, a daughter, of Alexander, Neb., died in 1911. There are 22 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church at Graham tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Graham. The Rev. Ralph Hicks, pastor of the Methodist church at Graham, will conduct the service. Members of the American Legion at Graham will act as pall bearers.

Mr. Noblet was the next to the last member of the G. A. R. at Graham.

Grading of Railroad Lots Begun by City

Wabash Provides Shrubs for Further Beautification at Fourth and Dunn.

Grading of the two lots at the southeast corner of Dunn and West Fourth street, which will be made into a small park, was started this morning by the city.

Operations were put under way last week after the Wabash railway agreed to give a lease on the lots. The railroad shipped in a number of shrubs which were planted Saturday under the supervision of Mayor W. O. Garrett.

Maryville-Clarinda Bus Line Discontinued

The Maryville-Clarinda bus line, which was started several weeks ago by Claude Wilson as a connecting link between St. Joseph and Omaha, was discontinued Saturday.

Mr. Wilson said the patronage was too small to justify the service.

City Probably Will Bury Louis LaFonte

The body of the man who gave his name as Louis La Fonte, who died at the city police station, May 12, still is unclaimed, Mayor W. O. Garrett said today. He thought the city would have to bury the body, which will be done in the next two or three days.

BIRTHS LEAD DEATHS BY 17

MORE OF BOTH IN APRIL THAN A YEAR AGO.

ALL PUPILS EXAMINED

Health Department Finishes This Work.—Seven of Month's Deaths Caused by Pneumonia.

There were more births and more deaths in Nodaway county in April, 1928, than during the corresponding month in 1927, according to the monthly report of the Nodaway county health department, made public today by Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer.

Fifty-one births were reported last month, as compared to thirty-eight for April, 1927, and the deaths numbered thirty-four, five more than a year ago.

The health department reported only one case of whooping cough. There were five cases of smallpox. During April, 1927, there were four cases of scarlet fever, seventy-nine cases of measles and one of diphtheria. Seven deaths resulted last month from bronchial pneumonia, the report stated.

Examinations Completed.

In his summary of the work for the month of April, Dr. Fryer said the physical examination of school children in Maryville was completed. A few cases of smallpox were reported, and the outbreak has been the cause of many vaccinations throughout the county. A number of cases of measles were reported at Conception Junction, but the flare-up has subsided.

Thirteen cases were examined at the chest clinic conducted by the Nodaway county Medical Society at the health office in April, the summary said.

During April, visits were made to fifteen suspects of acute communicable diseases and six were quarantined. Of the thirteen examinations for tuberculosis, two positive cases were found. Eight anti-smallpox vaccinations were given.

One hundred and eighteen children were examined at school. All but ten were found defective and 360 defects were listed. Twelve children came to the office for consultations.

Four Carloads of Water Main Arrive

Four carloads of 12-inch pipe, to be used for the new water main from the pumping station to the east end of First street, has arrived here, Mayor W. O. Garrett said today, and arrangements to unload the pipe were being made.

Just when the city will be given permission by the highway department to start laying the new main, Mr. Garrett said he did not know, as this depended upon the success of the department in obtaining right-of-way deeds.

The city council has made arrangements to deed that portion of the road adjacent to the pumping plant site to the highway department.

DIE IN BLAST OF WAR GAS

SEVERAL KILLED IN A MYSTERIOUS GERMAN EXPLOSION.

CLOUD FILLS STREETS

Hamburg Is Terrified by Deadly Fumes.—Finally Driven Into Open Country.

Hamburg, Germany, May 21.—With 11 persons reported dead and 100 seriously affected, a huge cloud of deadly phosgene gas that threatened the Hamburg area throughout the night was blown, at least temporarily, toward open country at noon today by a providential wind.

Four firemen and five policemen were reported among the dead.

It was announced officially that 7 persons were known to be dead and 150 in hospitals.

But it was feared that the total would prove to be larger, and the number of gassed persons was increased hourly as further victims reported at hospitals.

Effects Often Delayed.

Often the effects of phosgene gas are not felt fully for twenty-four hours.

The deadly gas—used in war—was being conveyed through the city during the night when the tank confining it exploded. Like a thick gray fog, hanging as heavily and as solidly as if inclosed in an invisible balloon of vast porportions, the gas spread out around the streets.

The cloud settled over the suburb of Wilhelmsburg, and its fumes spread among the 200,000 people living there. Hundreds were gassed in the streets, and of these at least 100 were taken to hospitals.

Fought With Ammonia.

Reichswehr soldiers, policemen and firemen fought the cloud with ammonia guns. They drove it across the Hofe canal—where several fishermen were gassed. But for hours they could not get it away from thickly habitted areas.

Throughout Hamburg there was panic. People rushed into the streets, afraid of meeting death in their homes.

During the forenoon rain started, and a wind came up from the east. The gas, moving solidly, drifted toward an uninhabited heath west of the city, and the danger was diminished.

Complete mystery surrounds the explosion. The firm that was in charge of the shipment refused information. It is reported that the gas was old war material, destined partly for destruction and partly for shipment abroad—cheifly to the United States.

One-Half Gram Deadly.

Professor Fritz Haber, Germany's leading poison gas expert, said today that one-half a gram of the deadly phosgene within a space of one cubic yard of air was sufficient to kill a human being in one minute.

Professor Haber was mystified regarding the origin of the gas. He said

Stewart to Answer to Contempt Charges

Loses Attempt to Nullify Indictment Against Him on Senate Charge Following Oil Inquiry.

Washington, May 21.—Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, lost today his attempt to nullify the Senate contempt indictment against him. He must go on trial here later.

Justice F. L. Siddons in District of Columbia supreme court upheld a government demurrer to Stewart's "plea in bar" against the indictment. Stewart contended primarily in his plea that he purged himself of the contempt charge by a later appearance before the Senate Teapot Dome committee, at which he testified fully and answered all the questions he previously refused to answer.

The government contended that Stewart's testimony in April was not given until after he was indicted; that his action in "squaring himself" with the Senate committee could not settle his account with the law, which demanded punishment for his recalcitrantce at his February appearance before the Senate committee.

If convicted, Stewart must serve from one month to one year in jail.

"VOLUNTEERS" DO THE WORK

HEAVY FUNDS DENIED

Supporters of New York Governor Also Profess Loyalty to Senator Simmons.

Raleigh, N. S., May 21.—The Senate campaign investigating committee encountered resentful denials of knowledge concerning the Gov. Alfred E. Smith fight to carry this state against Senator Simmons when it called North Carolina politicians to the stand in a hearing at the historic old State House here today.

John G. Dawson, Kingston, declared he was not the Smith manager here, that he never heard there was a manager but that each of the ten congressional districts was organized for Smith and that there was a manager for each district.

For Smith and Simmons Too.

James E. Caraway, Asheville, who was supposed to have important information about expenditures, said he knew nothing except what he had read in the newspapers. Both Dawson and Caraway made clear, however, that they were for Smith, at the same time professing devotion to Simmons, Democratic leader here for twenty-five years, who is conducting a vigorous fight against Smith.

"I don't believe $5,000 has been sent in from outside this state," Dawson said.

Robert H. Edwards, sheriff of Wayne county, has spent about $1,950 for personal traveling expenses. Dawson said Edwards had told him. Caraway said he had read that $5,000 was sent in for use by the backers of Representative Hull, Tennessee native son. He did not know who sent the money. Dawson denied that Simmons was involved in a bitter dispute here.

Leadership Not Challenged.

"It happens he is opposed to Governor Smith and a false structure has been raised," Dawson said. "I suppose he thinks his leadership is being challanged. I will say that 90 per cent, at least a large majority, of Smith's friends are also close friends of Senator Simmons."

Dawson desbribed the Smith organization here as "a large volunteer army working together but not under any active leadership."

"I don't think a single dollar has been given to any newspaper in the state to get out propaganda," he added.

"We won't raise any money around Asheville because it won't be needed there," Caraway said.

Edwards then was called. He said he was a farmer who made no money. He said he had not conducted "a bootlegging campaign, snooping around and getting my name in the newspapers."

Edwards said he had been given the $1,950 because he was "broke," and his friends knew that railroad and bus travel cost money.

He said he had been traveling around the state "working for Smith in an honorable way," since last November.

Edwards said his activities had been confined to "comforting the saints." The committee asked for an explanation of the phrase.

"Why, everybody around here knows what that means," he said. "It's an old saying used when Baptist preachers get together and talk around—a sort of mutual admiration society."

Edwards said he knew of no money being sent into the state for Smith.

Hull Supporter Testifies.

Zeb V. Turlington of Mooreville testified he had become active for Hull at the request of Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee. He collected $845 and still had $655, he said. Hull gave $500. The rest was raised locally. Some county organizations may have spent money, he said. "We have not been able to get up much interest yet and I'm afraid we won't," he said.

Turlington said that when he tried to get the Democratic state committee to authorize a primary, as suggested by Simmons, "we found a very strong opposition against it."

"We have run up against the most formidable political organization I ever saw in North Carolina," Turlington said.

Mob Invades County Jail for Prisoner Accused of Clubbing Farmer to Death.

Center, Tex., May 21.—A negro who had been charged with killing a farmer was taken from the county jail by an angry mob early today and hanged to a big oak tree in the court house yard.

The negro, known as Evans, was accused of clubbing John Wheeler, farmer, to death. The mob comprised about 50 men.

CALLS HOOVER FARM ENEMY

REED LAUNCHES ATTACK ON REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

SUBMITS RELIEF PLAN

Missourian Proposes Tariff Debenture Plan for Benefit of Agriculture.

Washington, May 21.—Senator James Reed, Democrat, Missouri, arguing before the Senate today for a tariff debenture rider on the tax reduction bill, termed Secretary of Commerce Hoover an enemy of agriculture. Both Reed and Hoover are candidates for the Presidency.

Saying that President Coolidge is reported ready to veto the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, Reed presented as an amendment to the revenue bill a proposal that exporters of farm products receive debentures permitting them to import, duty free, products equal to 24 per cent of the value of their exports. This, he argued, would give the farmer some assistance even if the farm bill fails to become law.

"For years the farmer has been compelled to buy in an artificially high market and sell in a natural low market," Reed said. "Only during the war did he stand to profit from this marketing arrangement by which the price of his product is fixed on the basis of foreign demand, and then Hoover, as food administrator, prevented him from taking advantage of the opportunity by setting the price of wheat at $2.20."

Reed charged that Hoover exceeded his power in fixing the price of wheat and that his object was to obtain cheap supplies for foreign countries.

"Congress gave him the right to set a minimum price," Reed said, "but he misused the anti-hoarding law to enforce the same as a maximum price. It was brazen usurpation of power. I say this not because he is a candidate for President. I made the same charges in 1927, when no one dreamed he would have the audacity to offer himself for the post.

"Two Europeans came to this country during the war seeking supplies at low prices. One was Lord Northcliffe, who wanted cheap copper, and like an English gentleman, said so. The other was Herbert Hoover, who used somewhat different methods."

Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, also attacked Hoover and criticised Secretary of Treasury Mellon for "trying to conceal thievery by officials of the federal land bank at Columbia, S. C."

He again demanded a senatorial investigation of the bank, claiming he has two witnesses who can prove his charge against the institution.

He denounced Hoover for promoting race equality in the Commerce Department by ordering discontinuation of negro segregation.

FLAMES BAR WAY IN MINE

WORKERS FIGHT FIRE TO LOCATE 150 ENTOMBED MEN.

50 KNOWN DEAD NOW

At Least Three Times as Many Trapped in a Pennsylvania Shaft Since Saturday.

Mather, Pa., May 21.—Fire broke out in the workings of the Mather mine this afternoon and temporarily halted rescue workers in their efforts to locate nearly 150 entombed miners. The fire started about a half mile from the foot of the shaft, 300 feet below the surface of the earth.

Relief crews were forced to flee from their positions to the surface.

The flames were brought under control without any injuries reported.

50 Known Dead.

The flames were believed to have been smothered in a section of the pit since the explosion Saturday and they were revived when the air was pumped through the compartment by rescuers.

After the fire was extinguished, the body of Gust Luoma was brought to the surface, bringing the known dead to fifty.

Fear was expressed by mining experts that other fires may be located from time to time throughout the workings.

Relief Worker Overcome.

The second rescue worker was overcome by gas in the mine. He was brought to the surface and revived.

The Mather Collieries Company officials have announced that they carried heavy group insurance on their workmen, indicating that dependents of the victims will be well cared for.

Excitement increased among the inhabitants of the little mining town as the day wore on and only a few missing miners were located by rescue workers.

There are more than a hundred men still missing, which means that there are hundreds of dependents eager for some news good or bad about their husbands and fathers.

One of Greatest Disasters.

With the faint hope that some life still might exist within the debris, hundreds of rescue workers labored after one of the most disastrous explosions in the history of Pennsylvania soft coal mining. The explosion took place Saturday.

Fourteen men have been rescued alive.

John Ira Thomas, in charge of the rescue work, said today it would be impossible to remove all the bodies of the entombed miners for several hours because of the severity of the explosion. Parts of the mine were badly wrecked, he said.

Public School a Morgue.

At some points the relief crews had gone back into the mine as far as two and a half miles. They bratticed as they went, to prevent members of the crews from falling victims of poisonous gas.

The Mather public school was being used as a morgue today and arrangements were made to take many bodies to their homes.

John C. Ross, Greene county coroner, has named a jury of six men to sit at the inquest of the disaster.

Walter H. Glasgow, state secretary of mines, who arrived here Saturday night, has settled on a total of 210 for the number of men originally trapped by the blast.

Glasgow held to the hope that some of the main group of miners in butt 14, where it was thought the gas exploded, might yet be found alive in their working rooms more than 300 feet underground.

Alive If There Is Air.

"If the men have air they are still alive," said John Ira Thomas, deputy mine secretary in charge of the bituminous section.

No one has been taken from the mine alive since early yesterday, but a late check by company officials revealed that fourteen were rescued and made their way to safety a few hours after the explosion. Some of these seriously injured, were taken to the Waynesburg, Pa., hospital. There is the possibility that others may have escaped from the mine and have failed to report.

Rescue crews have made more progress than is customary in soft coal mines, where there is only the one shaft entrance a few hundred feet deep and the workings run back thousands of feet, branching off here and there

Pocket of Gas and Coal Dust Blamed

Sparks From Electric Cable When Insulation Is Cut May Have Caused Mine Disaster.

Mather, Pa., May 21.—The first coherent theory for the cause of the Mather mine explosion which killed scores of miners was told today by two survivors of the disaster.

Their names have not been divulged by mine officials, but their story appeared to mine experts as the most logical explanation yet advanced for the blast.

These men told mine officials they had witnessed the beginning of a series of explosions when a cutting machine severed the insulation of an electric cable, causing a flash of sparks. The sparks ignited a pocket of gas and coal dust, which wrecked the mine.

Snodgrass Describes Pentecostal Crusade

Never More Needed Than as 1900th Anniversary Approaches, He Declares.

"In preparing for the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost, the Church of Christ is engaging in the greatest work of a hundred years," the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, former pastor, now an evangelist, said last night in a sermon at the First Christian Church.

"Never was a great evangelistic crusade more needed than this hour," the Reverend Mr. Snodgrass declared.

"I am not going to insult your intelligence by trying to prove that we are in the midnight hour of the world's life. Evangelism has saved the church in days gone by and if it is saved today, it is going to be by that same great power.

"Evangelism and Pentecost are inseparably linked together. It might be that this season of celebration of the 1900th Pentecost will usher in a wave of evangelism and give birth to an evangelistic crusade that will save the day for the Kingdom of God.

The Reverend Mr. Snodgrass then explained evangelistic aims and goals, culminating with Pentecost in 1930, as outlined by Jesse M. Bader, secretary of the department of evangelism of the Disciples of Christ.

The first step he described as a deepening of the spiritual life of all the churches, by promoting studies in the life of Christ during these anniversary years of His ministry, by organizing devotional studies and intercessory prayer groups, and by developing a greater loyalty to the Commission service and church attendance.

Second, the organization of 300 new congregations, 300,000 baptisms, and 200,000 added to the churches by letter and statement, and a world membership of 1,750,000 by Pentecost, 1930.

"The goals are to be reached by enlisting 600 new recruits for the ministry, 500 laymen for gospel team work and 50,000 members witnessing Christ in personal work.

"If the evangelistic aims are to be materialized, there be a Pentecostal preparation, the Reverend Mr. Snodgrass said.

"There must be a Pentecostal vision before there can be a Pentecostal victory. For ten days they tarried—they prayed and there can be no better preparation than that.

"The upper room of the first church must supplant the supper room of the modern church. They were not waiting on tables, they were waiting on the Lord. We need less dependence upon the cook and more dependence upon the Book.

"We need a less apologetic type of preaching today," he added. "The gospel can only be preached by a preacher who believes.

"We have but two alternatives, either we can sleep on in our indifference and unconcern until the very blackness of eternal midnight wakes us up to the realization of our sin, to our everlasting shame and contempt, or we can catch the Pentecostal spirit of faith and adventure and save the church from this tragic hour."

The Reverend Mr. Snodgrass gave a report of the work accomplished at the International meeting of Christian churches held recently at Columbus, Ohio.

Living Faith Builds Nations, Lakin Says

The Church Lays Foundations of Peace and Prosperity, Christian Minister Declares.

The church and its relationship to national life was discussed in a sermon, "The Church in the Wilderness," which was given yesterday morning at the First Christian church by the Rev. L. E. Lakin of Kansas City.

The Reverend Mr. Lakin took Israel as example of the national benefits of religion.

"We are prone to think of Israel, because of her history, as a mighty nation," he pointed out. "And we think of might in the physical sense. But Israel was insignificant in population, in her intellectual attainments, in her physical prowess, in her artistic accomplishments and in her material accumulations. And yet she holds the center in the ancient stage.

"Israel was great because of her faith; she believed in God. She had nothing else to boast of nor to look to, but the Soverign of the Universe. She did this, and towered above the nations and the peoples of the earth."

The faith of the Israelites, the minister said, enabled them to build the most expensive temple the world ever saw, gave them power to resist their foes and held them together as a people.

"Now if Israel was strong and mighty because she had the promise, how much greater ought we to be with the substance at hand?" the Reverend Mr. Lakin asked.

Quoting a returned traveler as declaring that Moslemism is dying because it is building no temples," the minister said:

"Somehow or other, a living faith is a building faith. Faith brings to pass. It builds temples, hospitals, schools, asylums. Yes, it goes on and does more—it makes highways, cities, builds railroads, airplanes, ships. In a word, faith is a civilizing and modernizing power.

"We may laugh at the preacher and the Sunday school teacher, but after all they who look up, live on, and somehow they are able to lift the world. They are laying the foundations of peace and prosperity.

"It means something to build a church. It means something to go to church. For the church to fail is a calamity. It is a national calamity for the church to lose its power. It's a tragedy when the people forget to pray.

"Sermons and songs do not make the church. People make the churches, and churches make the people. God is still a refuge and strength as in days gone by. He builds nations, he makes peoples.

"Don't forget to pray. Hold on to God. He is our hope, our only hope."

DUNCAN TO BE A CANDIDATE

ST. JOSEPH MAN TO SEEK NOMINATION FOR CONGRESS.

DEMOCRATS BACK HIM

Leaders Throughout Fourth District Pledge Support.—Will Oppose Charles L. Faust.

Richard M. Duncan, city counselor of St. Joseph, announced Saturday night that he would make the race for the Democratic nomination for congress from the Fourth district. Duncan was indorsed by the Buchanan county Democratic central committee at a meeting Saturday.

The following is from the St. Joseph Gazette:

The announcement, local political leaders declare, makes it almost a certainty that Duncan will oppose Charles L. Faust, Republican incumbent, for re-election next November, the party congressional committee having previously agreed to accept St. Joseph's choice as the Democratic nominee.

Resolution Sets Precedent.

The resolution stating that Duncan would make an ideal candidate and one certain of victory, adopted unanimously by the committee, set a precedent in local political circles. It was introduced by L. L. Roesle, following speeches by Emmett Crouse, George Starmer, Mrs. John S. Logan, Dr. F. W. Holkenbrink, chairman; Phil Slattery and Sam Jones of Agency. The meeting was held Saturday at the courthouse.

Duncan declared Saturday night that he would file by June 7 and seek the nomination.

"While I haven't sought the nomination I have been urged by many of my friends to become a candidate, and after the pledge of the party leaders outside of the city to support a St. Joseph man, and the indorsement of the county committee, I shall answer my party's call with every confidence of success," Duncan said Saturday night.

Duncan Is Optimistic.

"The leaders of the party all over the district have pledged their active support. During my experience in politics I have never seen a more harmonious feeling among Democrats harmony and unity in this district will carry any candidate to victory that the Democrats may select.

"The district normally has been overwhelming Democratic and this is the time to redeem it. I have every confidence that it can be done."

Leaders Pledge Support.

Virtually all of the Democratic leaders in St. Joseph have pledged their support to Duncan. Among those expected to be active in his campaign are Judge R. E. Culver, G. D. Berry, state committeeman; John G. Parkinson, J. W. Mytton, Judge Charles H. Mayer, John J. Downey, delegate to the national Democratic convention; Dave Curtin, Judge A. B. Duncan, Mayor Louis V. Stigall, George Starmer, Roscoe P. Conkling, Emmett J. Crouse and Harvey J. Boyle.

Among those expected to take a very active part in the congressional campaign is Judge Culver, who is very friendly to Duncan's candidacy and whose political influence is expected to be a big asst to the Democratic congressional candidate.

Duncan Saturday night refused to make any announcement as to policy or platform, declaring he preferred to wait until he had formally filed as a candidate.

Of the six counties in this congressional district, friends of Duncan can predict that he will pile up substantial majorities against Faust in Buchanan counties.

Fourth Term for Faust.

Congressman Faust is completing his fourth term, having been elected for the first time in 1920. The fourth district, normally is 3,000 to 3,500 votes Democratic, election records show.

If Francis M. Wilson, Platte City candidate, is nominated to make the gubernatorial race for the Democrats next fall, this district is expected to be even more decidedly Democratic. Duncan, born in Platte County, can expect to poll a heavy majority in that county as well as in Buchanan County to offset any gains Faust may make in Republican counties of the district, Duncan's supporters believe.

Appointed Counselor in 1927.

Duncan is starting on his second year as city counselor, having been appointed in 1927 by Mayor Louis V. Stigall. For six years, from 1911 to 1917, he served as deputy circuit clerk under Ross C. Cox and in Judge Charles H. Mayer's court. From 1917 to 1921 he was with Mytton & Parkinson, attorneys, and from 1921 to 1927 he was a member of the law firm of Landis & Duncan.

He was secretary of the Monroe Club, the oldest political organization in the state, for two years. He has been active in every city and state political campaign for the last ten years, and this spring was chairman of the county convention.

Born In Platte County.

Mr. Duncan was born in Platte county in 1889 on a farm seven miles northeast of Dearborn. His father was Richard F. Duncan, for twelve years county judge in Platte County. Duncan's great- grandfather served in Missouri's twenty-first legislature in 1840. Duncan's first hand in politics was in 1901, when at the age of eleven he served as a page in the state senate.

Scores Yesterday.

Bolckow 5, at Clearmont 16.
Burlington Junction 1, at Hopkins 6.
Maryville 7, at Barnard 4.
Guilford 6, at Quitman 7, 11 innings.

The tie for leadership in the Nodaway county baseball league narrowed to three teams as the result of yesterday's games.

Hopkins, by defeating Burlington Junction 6 to 1, Quitman by defeating Guilford 7 to 6, and Clearmont, by defeating Bolckow 16 to 5, were deadlocked with three games won and one lost. Maryville stepped up a notch to a .500 percentage by defeating Barnard 7 to 4.

Three home runs were clouted in the league yesterday. Norris, Clearmont, scored two men ahead of him in the sixth inning against Bolckow; Tommy Tobin hit a circuit smash in the third for Quitman against Guilford with one man one base; and Peve of Hopkins capped the climax when he landed one in the pasture for four bases with the sacks loaded.

11 Innings at Quitman.

Guilford, which has been having a run of hard luck, gave the fast Quitman team a stiff battle, only to lose in the eleventh inning. It was the hard hitting of the Quitman team that brought victory. In the field, Guilford played better ball, making eight errors, while Quitman chalked up an even dozen. Johnston's three bagger and Tobin's home run came at opportune times. The box score:

The score was tied 6-all at the end of the ninth inning.

Clearmont Hits Hard.

Clearmont hit three Bolckow pitchers hard to win in easy fashion, 16 to 5. Wampler lasted six innings for Bolckow. Duke followed him to the mound and pitched to four men, and then Hatcher finished the game. Wampler went out when the game was 7 to 5 for Clearmont. Davison was the Bolckow catcher.

Norris pitched seven innings for Clearmont and Seckman two. Norris got eight strikeouts and Wampler two. The home run by Norris in the sixth with two men on base was the feature of the game. Bolckow bunched hits in the fourth inning to bring in five runs. The score by innings:

Homer Scores Four Runs.

Playing at Hopkins, Burlington Junction lost 1 to 6. Hopkins took advantage of Plummer's loose control in the fifth inning when he walked three men. Wren Peve, Hopkins third baseman, swung into a fast delivery that went for a home-run, giving Hopkins a 4 to 1 lead.

The Burlington run was made in the third inning when Jones was hit by Thorburn, Hopkins moundsman. He stole two bases and came home on a two-bagger by Orville Hedges. Hedges stole third but was left there as DaVault was thrown out, third to first.

Hopkins scored two more runs in the seventh when Don Turner singled. With two out, Peve doubled and Henning singled to increase the count to six.

Both teams hit six times and made two errors. The box score:

COMETS WIN AT BARNARD

CHANGED MARYVILLE LINE-UP WORKS WELL.

LAUGHLIN ON MOUND

Hurler Shares Honors With Augustine, Who Doubles Twice and Triples. —Hopkins Here Sunday.

The changed line-up of the Maryville Comets worked well at Barnard yesterday and the team won its second game out of four starts in the Nodaway county league, 7 to 4. The victory showed that Maryville has a team which is fast coming to the front.

On the mound was Bill Laughlin, who has caught the other three games. The Maryville men played a snappy game behind.

In years gone by, Roy Mayes used to don the catcher's mask, but he has been playing in the infield of late. He was at his old place yesterday and helped Laughlin through difficulties.

The game did not look so rosy for Maryville at the start, Barnard piling up a 3-to-1 lead in the first two frames. Maryville scored first, when Laughlin, second man up, tripled and scored on Daniels' tap. Phillips brought in Barnard's first run in the home team's half of the first when he got to first on an error and worked his way around while the next three men were going out. Two more were added to the Barnard total in the second on hits by Goforth, Nedro and Williams.

Maryville tied the count in the third inning on Arthur's single, Augustine's double, two infield outs and an error. The Comets went ahead by accumulating two more runs in the fourth inning with only one hit. Hise walked and so did Burks. Burks was out at second on Arthur's roller, but Augustine came through again, this time with a triple. Barnard scored its last run in this inning. Goforth was safe as Arthur had difficulty fielding his high rly and came around on McGuire's infield out. Nedro's strike-out and Williams' hard drive to short.

Maryville brought in another run in the sixth inning. After Hise went out at first, Burks singled. Arthur flied to Goforth, but Augustine responded for the third time, his double scoring Burks.

The last Maryville score was made in the eighth inning. C. Mayes doubled but failed to touch first base and was out when the ball was returned there. Hise then drove out a triple and scored on Burks' single. Arthur forced Burks at second and Augustine forced Arthur at the same base.

With Brennan back at first base the Maryville offensive has been augmented. Augustine is one of the most feared batters in the league; he has not failed yet to contribute his share of hits for Maryville in any game.

Maryville will play its next game on the home field against a traditional rival, Hopkins, next Sunday. The manner in which the Comets performed yesterday warrants a better crowd than has been attending the home games. To date Maryville has failed to make expenses playing at home.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, ward of the state orphanage from the time she is four, is "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON when she is 16 and meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on the farm for the summer. Carson makes insulting remarks about David's friendship for Sally and the student strikes him a terific blow.

Sally and David run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, Hula dancer, who knows the police are after David and Sally and who is infatuated with David, threatens to expose Sally if she doesn't keep "hands off" the young student.

The carnival goes next to Capital City, where Sally spent so many years in the orphanage. She soon forgets her fears of detection and relies on her successful disguise of the crystal gazer. She is confused one afternoon by a handsome, well-dressed Easterner who teasingly reads her fortune in the crystal. She forgets him, however, when she sees her little friends, the wards of the orphanage, troop in with a beautiful, sad-eyed woman. Sally is completely terrified when one of the orphans recognizes her and shouts her name. GUS, the barker, however, comes to her rescue and diverts attention to the freaks. Soon the children troop out and Sally gives her attention to the beautiful woman who is addressing the black-eyed Easterner. They apparently know each other, for they greet each other as "Enid" and "Van."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 28

The storm broke with such sudden and devastating fury that the performers in the Palace of Wonders tent had little time to obey the "white hope's" frantic bellow of warning.

The terrified audience milled like stampeded cattle, choking up both exits of the tent that leading out into the midway, and the flap at the back of the tent through which performers passed in and out between shows. At each exit the fear-crazed carnival visitors were assaulted by a dazing impact of wind and hail and rain, driven back into the temporary shelter of the tent.

Sally was fighting her way toward the "alley" exit, her frail, small body hurling itself futilely against men who had lost all thought of chivalry, knew only that death threatened.

The region was notorious for its cyclones, and the horror of such a calamity was stamped on every pallid face. Children screamed; women shrilled for help, called frantically for their offspring separated from them in that mad rush for the exits.

Sally had almost won to the alley exit when she remembered "Pitty Sing," the midget, tiny, helpless Miss Tanner, who was paying her to carry her to and from the tent, who must even now be cowering in her baby-chair, unable even to reach the ground without assistance.

It was not quite so hard to push her way back into the center of the tent; crazed men and women offered little resistance to anyone who was so foolish as to attempt death under a collapsed tent.

She had almost reached the midget's platform when she suddenly felt herself lifted into a pair of strong arms, swung high above the hands of the last of the crowd that was battling its way to the exits. Her cry was instinctive, unreasoning, direct from her heart: "David! Oh, David!"

A mocking laugh answered her and she squirmed in the man's arms so that she could see his face. It was not David at all, but the man whom "Enid" had called "Van." His face was laughing, gay, mocking, untouched by the shameful palor of fear; exultant, rather, in the excitement of the storm. His dark eyes were wide, shining even through the fitful darkness made by the flickering of the crazily swinging gas jets.

"Isn't it glorious?" he challenged her, above the uproar of wind, rain, hail and the frightened animal sounds of human being in fear of death.

"I've got to find the midget—Pitty Sing!" she shouted, struggling frantically to release herself.

"The charming barker has rescued her," Van shouted. "I was afraid some officious ass had cheated me of the pleasure of rescuing you. I've waited all day—"

But his sentence was broken in two by the long-threatened collapse of the tent. A center-pole struck him a glancing blow, knocking him flat, and Sally with him.

For what seemed like hours of nightmare she struggled to release herself from the steel like clasps of his arms and the smothering embrace of the rain-sodden canvas. To add to the horror, rain fell heavily upon the canvas that held them pinned helplessly to the earth; hail pelted her flesh bitingly even through the dubious protection of the canvas; and every moment they were in mortal danger of being trampled to death by the feet of fleeing carnival visitors, who had been clear of the tent when it had collapsed.

"Don't—struggle," came that mocking voice, panting a little with the effort of speaking under the smothering caul of canvas. "Lie—still. I'll hold up—the canvas—so you—can breathe. Shield your face—with your—arms. Sorry—I muffed—the role—of rescuer—of damsels—in distress."

"Oh, hush!" Sally cried angrily, but doing her best to obey him. She crooked an arm over her face, so that the hail no longer punished it. And she relaxed as much as possible, her head on Van's shoulder, her feet pushing futilely at the sodden mass of canvas that weighted them down. Van's left hand was outspread, just above her face, holding the dripping cloth high enough above her nose to permit her to breathe in some degree of comfort.

"Better?" he asked casually, no fear at all in his voice, and only a mocking sort of anxiety. "We'll be safe enough here until the tent is raised, unless someone steps on us. And by this time your charming employer, the redoubtable Pop Bybee, has of course assembled his roustabouts to raise the tent in the expectation of finding buried treasure—ostrich men, midgets, and Turkish harem girls who read crystals."

"Aren't you ever serious? Aren't you frightened?" Sally gasped.

"Serious? Well, hardly ever!" the man chuckled. "Frightened? Frequently. But I am so appreciative of this opportunity to be alone with you that I could hardly quibble with fate to the extent of being frightened at the means which accomplished it."

"Oh, I wonder what's happened to—to everybody!" Sally began to shiver with sobs.

"To—David?" Van's mocking voice came strangely out of the darkness. "Lucky David, wherever he is now, that your first thought should go to him. David and Sally! How do you like 'play-acting,' Sally Ford?"

The terror which the menace of violent death had held for her now seemed a pallid, weak thing, beside the heart-stopping emotion which the New Yorker's mocking, amused voice uttering her real name called into being. Her head jerked instinctively from the comfort of his arm. Squirming away from him, under the sodden blanket of canvas, she curled into a tight little ball of agony, her face cupped in her hands. "So that's why you bothered me so!" she cried, her voice muffled by her fingers. "You're a detective! You knew all the time! You were going to take me to jail! Oh, you—Oh! David, David!"

"Listen, you little idiot!" Van's voice came sharply, bereft of its mocking note for once. "I'm not a detective! Good heavens! Do I look like one? I've always understood that they have enormous feet and wear derbies and talk out of the corner of their mouths." Mockery was creeping back. "Did you thing that a poor little tyke like you was worth sending to New York for a detective to bay at your heels like a bloodhound? I merely overheard the little Betsey's keen penetration of your disguise. And I took the trouble to inquire casually of the governor this evening just who—if anybody—Sally Ford might be—"

"Then you gave me away—David and me!" she accused him, shuddering with sobs.

"Not at all. How it does pain me for you to persist in misunderstanding me! I gave nothing away—absolutely nothing! I merely found out that David Nash and Sally Ford are fugitives from justice, wanted on rather serious charges. After making the acquaintance of 'Princess Lalla,' I might add that I don't believe a word of your silly story. Besides, I have your own word for it—" and he laughed—"that you are 'not that kind of a girl.' As a matter of fact—oh! We're about to be rescued, Sally Ford! I hear the 'heave-ho' of stalwart black boys. And the storm is over, except for a gentle, lady-like rain.

It was not till he mentioned the blessed fact that Sally realized that the storm was indeed over. The only sound, besides the shouts of the "white hopes" engaging in raising the collapsed tent, was the patter of rain upon the canvas which still weighted down her small, cold body, as wet as if she had been swimming.

Struggling to a sitting position under the already moving mass of canvas, the New Yorker cupped his hands about his mouth and shouted: "Ship ahoy! Ship ahoy!" In an aside to Sally he chuckled: "What does one shout under the circumstances—or rather under the canvas of a collapsed carnival tent?"

Sally managed a weak little laugh. "One shouts, 'Hey, Rube!'" she told him.

And his stentorian "Hey, rube!" struggled up through layers of dripping canvas, bringing speedy relief for the submerged "rube" and performer. When at last the tent was raised, Sally walked out, Van's arm still about her shivering, soaked body, to find apparently the entire carnival force huddled in the rain to welcome her, drawn by that fateful cry of "Hey, rube!"

Jan, the giant, was there, sad-eyed but smiling. "Pitty Sing" perched on one of his shoulders, Noko, the male midget, on the other. "The girl nobody can lift" was there, too, her right arm in splints, a deep gash down her pale cheek; Eddie Cobb, who, they told her as they chorused their welcome, had been crying like a baby as he searched for her through the wreck of the carnival, was clasping a drenched Kewpie doll to his breast, apparently the sole survivor of his gambling wheel stock.

Pop and Mrs. Bybee were there, Mrs. Bybee clad only in a black sateen petticoat and a red sweater. And in spite of his heavy loss from the fury of the story Pop was smiling, his bright blue eyes twinkling a welcome. But—but—Sally's eyes roved from face to face, confidently at first, grateful for their friendliness, then widening with alarm. For David was not there.

"Where's David?" she cried, then her voice growing shrill and frantic, she screamed at them: "Where's David? Tell me! He's hurt—dead? Tell me!" She broke away from Van, ran to Pop Bybee and tugged with her little blue-white hands washed free of their brown make-up, at his wet coat.

"Reckon he's safe and sound in the privilege car," Bybee reassured her, but his blue eyes avoided hers, pityingly, she thought.

"Was anyone killed in the storm? Tell me!" she insisted, her bluish lips twisting into a piteous loop of pain.

"We can't find Nita nowhere," Babe the fat girl, blurted out, her eyes wide with childish love of excitement. "We thought she was buried under a tent but they've got all the tents up now and she ain't nowhere."

Nita—and David. Nita—David—missing. For she did not believe for an instant that Pop Bybee was telling her the truth.

"It seems to me," Van interrupted nonchalantly, "that dry clothes are indicated for Princess Lalla. May I escort you to your tent?" and he bowed with mocking ceremony before her.

"He saved my life," Sally acknowledged suddenly, half-angrily, for she resented with childish unreasonableness the fact that it had been this mocking, insolent stranger, this "rube" from New York, not David, who had saved her.

An hour later when she was uneasily asleep in her berth in the show train, whose sleeping cars had been pressed into service in lieu of the soaked cots in the dress tent, a sudden uproar—hoarse voices shouting and cursing—shocked her into consciousness. Broken sentences flung out by angry men, Pop Bybee's voice easily distinguished among them, told her what had happened:

"Every damn cent gone!—Payroll gone! Safe cracked! — Told you you was a fool to take in them two hobos that was already wanted by the police. That Dave guy's beat it—made a clean-up—"

Avoids Celebration of "My Own Stunt"

Lindbergh Will Be Absent When St. Louis Commemorates His Flight to Europe.

St. Louis, Mo., May 21.—One year from the day "Captain" Charles A. Lindbergh spanned the Atlantic in a non-stop flight from New York to Paris, citizes of the city for which his trim plane was named gathered here today to commemorate the event.

But with characteristic reticence, Charles A. Lindbergh, now a colonel, will be absent.

Members of the city government, of the chamber of commerce which backed his epochal venture, of the newly created air-board of 350 members, and of every civic organization of St. Louis will attend a luncheon at the City Club.

The City Club luncheon is the culminating event of a week-end marked by scores of sermons here on the central theme "American Youth." The luncheon will be featured by submission of student essays on "What Colonel Lindbergh Means to St. Louis."

Although Lindbergh will not be here to serve as a focal point for the celebration, his collection of trophies and medals, on display at Jefferson Memorial, in Forest Park, will have thousands of visitors.

The famous flier is to remain in the East, perfecting plans for a forthcoming flight. His "Spirit of St. Louis" is in Washington whence he flew it recently from here on its last flight. It will be placed on permanent display at the Smithsonian Institute.

Absence of Lindbergh was regretted by those who arranged and participated in the celebration, but it was interpreted as wholly "in character." It was said he had privately explained several weeks ago that he did not feel like "celebrating my own stunt."

Bankers to Discuss Machine Gun Banditry

Association, in Kansas City Meeting, to Seek Methods of Coping With Problem.

Kansas iCty, Mo., May 21.—How to cope with machine gun bandits and other robber gangs will be discussed at the annual convention of the Missouri Bankers' Association which open here tomorrow.

Edward Buder, president, arrived in Kansas City today to complete plans for the convention. He said bankers of the state were plainly worried by the increasing number of bank holdups.

"Machine guns in the hands of bandit gangs are a menace to the banking industry and the public generally," he said. "Laws should be enacted to prevent the sale and ownership of machine guns to proviate individuals."

Springfield, Mo., May 21.—Consolidation of the managements of the Springfield Leader and the Springfield Daily News, has been announced here.

The publisher of the Leader bought the News, the announcement said.

Edson K. Bixby, editor of the News, will edit the two papers, while Stuart Oliver will remain president of the Leader company.

Mrs. Phil Simpich and son, Phil Bob, who have been visiting Mrs. Simpich's mother, Mrs. Fannie Rawlins, at Rocheport, Mo., returned home Saturday

A YEAR SINCE LINDY LANDED

TODAY IS FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF TRANSATLANTIC HOP.

HE HAS MORE PLANS

"Air Ambassador" Considers Second Trip to Europe—Will Take New Route.

New York, May 21.—One year ago today Col. Charles A. Lindbergh dropped down out of the skies in Paris to be acclaimed as the greatest popular hero of recent times.

He had flown from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, in his now famous "Spirit of St. Louis," to Le Bourget Field, near Paris, in 33½ hours. He had become the first man to fly without stop frrm the North American to the European mainland—and today he remains the only person who has made such a flight alone.

In the year which has passed Lindbergh has been more continuously in the public eye and more constantly active than any other man on either side of the ocean. He has flown on a nationwide tour, visiting every state in the Union. He has flown to Mexico, Central and South America, Cuba and back to this country. He has made innumerable flights with congressmen, with dignitaries and with aviation enthusiasts. Almost every day he has been in the air. If all cheers he has received were combined into one, it would be a roar loud enough to break most of the ear-drums in New York City.

Entertained by Royalty.

He has been entertained by Kings, Princes, Premiers and Presidents. Society has quarreled over him and he has sneaked away to eat roast beef with a humble mechanic and his wife. It would be impossible to crowd into one short story all the things which have happened to Lindbergh, who is still aged only 26, in those 12 months.

But Lindbergh is not content. The anniversary of his flight finds him engaged in plans for what may develop into even a great feat. He now is studying the feasibility of flying back to Europe via a route which would carry him to Newfoundlend, Greenland, Iceland and thence to the European mainland. His purpose is two-fold. First he desires to visit Europe again; and second he is interested in establishing an air route to Europe less hazardous and more practical than the "Lindbergh Trail" with its two thousand miles over open and unprotected sea.

May Circle Globe.

It is possible Lindbergh may even extend his 1928 flight into a trip around the world. He probably would fly much of the way although he is not yet convinced of the feasibility of crossing the Pacific by airplane even by the northern route through Siberia and Alaska.

His tentative plan embraces the use of a Ford plane, probably more powerful and larger than the "Spirit of St. Louis," and designed especially for such a flight as he may undertake.

Lindbergh has not definitely decided whether he will undertake this flight to Europe although he is determined to visit those European capitals which has was forced to drop from his itinerary in 1927 because of the clamor in this country that he return to receive his honors.

Whatever flights he undertakes in the future, Lindbergh insists, will be designed entirely for the benefit of aviation. He realizes there is a risk in his pioneering, as in all pioneering, but he looks with disfavor upon any flight which does not have as compensation for the risk involved, the definite advancement of flying to which he is so devoted.

DIE IN BLAST OF WAR GAS

it was produced in wartime in great quantities, but now was manufactured in Germany only in the smallest amounts, for use in certain dyes.

Rain, he said, would destroy the phosgene's power to harm.

Professor Haber said he was unable to conceive how the Hamburg company obtained the gas, which was manufactured and stored under the greatest precautions.

Many Cattle Poisoned.

The poison killed many cattle.

City authorities have issued a proclamation to the population warning against eating any meat that might come from such cattle—it too would be poisoned.

Firemen, after heroic efforts, held a portion of the gas in the huge tank from which the rest had escaped.

It was impossible at first to approach the tank, but special phosgene masks were rushed to the scene. Ordinary gas masks would have been of no use.

Inhabitants of the Wilhelmsburg district were ordered to evacuate the affected portion of the suburb.

Not Banned by Treaty.

Washington, May 21.—The chemical warfare service of the army said today phosgene gas has several commercial uses, the principal one of which is for making dye stuffs.

It was said the service knew of no versailles treaty provission preventing Germany from having such gas in its possession.

It was estimated that about 12 cubic yards of the terrible phosgene gas was responsible—a comparatively tiny quantity.

A Foretaste of Next War.

The terror-stricken inhabitants of Hamburg were suggesting fearfully to each other today that their expenience was one in prospect for populations of all big cities affected by the next great war.

Only a favorable wind saved hundreds, and possibly thousands, from an agonizing death. The slightest change in the wind after the gas was released from its conveying tank would have blown the poison through the densely populated workers' district of Veddel. But the less thickly-populated Wilhelmsburg district suffered, and finally the gas blew onto the Bradenburger heath, where late today it was losing its strength.

Officials of the company that owned the gas, after hours of silence, said that it was destined for industrial work. The gas had been stored for seven years, it was said, and during that time small quantities of it had been sold, some to United States dye companies.

WARNING IS GIVEN BY U.S.

CHINESE NOTIFIED AMERICANS WILL BE PROTECTED.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE

All Foreign Forces in Concessions Prepare for Defense in Case of Outbreak.

THE CHINESE SITUATION IN BRIEF.

By United Press.

American legation in Peking advised Chinese foreign minister that fighting in Peking or Tientsin would endanger American lives and property and warned marines would protect Americans.

American marines billeted in French concession at Tientsin. All foreign troops there said to be actively preparing to defend foreign concessions.

Additional Japanese troops arrived in Peking.

Chang Tso-Lin, Northern leader, conferred in Peking with generals called from various fronts over Japanese announcement that extension of civil war to Manchuria would be opposed.

Japan has decided to take measures to protect Japanese Nationals now in North China. Military forces in Manchuria will be strengthened and startegic points probably will be covered.

General Chang Tso-Lin's foreign office isused another appeal for peace in the Chinese civil situation warning that Japan was still a menace. He said the Northerners were prepared, however, to give battle to the invading southern army.

To Protect Americans.

Tokio, May 21.—American residents in Peking and Tientsin will be protected by United States marines now assigned to those two cities, the United Etates government has warned the Chinese foreign office.

The legation at Peking—according to advices received here—sent the foreign office a note warning that if fighting between the northern and southern armies should break out near Peking and Tientsin there was grave danger to American life and property.

The note expressed the hope that the Chinese would avoid embroiling the United States in the French concessions, actively preparing to defend the foreign concessions. Japanese have completed building an airdrome near the barracks and additional aircraft is expected soon.

At Peking it was understood two additional Japanese troops had arrived to reinforce the international guard at the legation quarters.

Meanwhile the Northern army is making plans for their action should they decide to retire to Manchuria.

Chinese Are Notified.

Washington, May 12.—Minister MacMurray has notified both sides in the Chinese civil war that the United States is apprehensive for the safety of American lives and property because of the imminence of fighting in the vicinity of Peking and Tientsin, it was said at the state department today.

Separate notes were delivered, one by the legation in Peking to Chang Tso-Lin, Northern war lord, and the other by Consul-general Cunningham in Shanghai to the Nationalist Council of State. Neither has been made public.

The notes, which were described as friendly, were said to have called attention to the military crisis in North China, and to have pointed out the preparations the United States is making to protect its citizens. The military commanders were asked to keep their soldiers out of the areas in which the Americans are being concentrated.

Half William Jewell Seniors Stay Away

Liberty, Mo., May 21.—More than 50 per cent of the senior class of William Jewell College remained away from baccalaureate services of their class yesterday morning in protest against appointment of Dr. John F. Vines of Kansas City to preach the farewell sermon.

Dr. Vines was known as an opponent of Dean R. R. Fleet of the college. Last week many of the senior class met and threatened to "walk out" on Dr. Vines before the end of the sermon. Dr. H. C. Wayman, president of the college, issued a counter threat to the effect that any one causing a disturbance would be expelled within the day. The students apparently were cowed and forty-six of eighty-four in the senior class merely "cut" the sermon.

In addition to its ahtagonism to Dr. Vines, the senior class also was in revolt against Dr. Wayman, an aftermath to charges that Wayman has claimed academic degrees to which he is not entitled.

This charge was given credence last week when a resolution was presented at a senior class meeting, in which college trustees were requested to appoint someone other than Wayman to sign their diplomas.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, May 21.—Favorable weather reports from the entire belt sent wheat futures lower on the board of trade today. Corn was off with wheat, while oats were nervous and erratic. At the close wheat was down ½c; corn was off 1c and oats were unchanged. Provisions were lower.

The wheat market was dull with trading quiet through the day. Favorable crop reports were somewhat offset by unfavorable reports from Europe. The entire belt received rains over the week-end and temperatures were favorable for growth today.

Corn was stronger than wheat due to the large decrease in supply reported today. Stocks of old corn are diminishing rapidly and this offset the favorable weather report. There was no news of significance in oats.

Week Crowded With Big Sport Happenings

Three Boxing Titles at Stake.—Davis Cup Matches Begin.—Bunion Derby Near End.

New York, May 21.—One of the most crowded weeks in the history of sport was ushered in today, with many international championships at stake.

Three world's boxing titles will be fought for within the next four days, the lightweight, bantamweight and junior lightweight. The British amateur golf championship and the French tennis championships are being contested at Prestwich, Scotland and Paris respectively.

The United States Olympic football team started training today for its first round match against the Argentinians at Amsterdam, while Davis Cup play continued in several European capitals. In the American zone, the United States plays China, starting Friday, while at the same time the Japanese Davis Cup team meets the Canadians at Montreal.

Third round Davis Cup matches are starting in the European zone, England having eliminated Finland and Holland having put out the Hungarians in the second round.

On Friday and Saturday, representatives of 30 colleges will compete at Cambridge, Mass., in the annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships.

And last—the C. C. Pyle transcontinental foot race comes to an end in Madison square garden on Saturday night.

The boxing situation—three world's championship fights within four days—is unprecedented and is still in the hands of the weather man. If Tex Rickard sells those other six tickets and the rain holds off, Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin will battle for the lightweight crown tonight at the polo grounds. The little fellows must weigh in again this afternoon.

Machinery Not Harmed.

The progress of the rescuers has been rapid because the main shaft machinery was not harmed by the concussion. The fan apparatus also was started a short time after the blast, forcing fresh air into the workings.

The relief squadrons pressed forward in two long main drives, one division hacking in from the foot of the main shaft and the other striking from the bottom of an air shaft on the Marianna Road. It was from this air shaft that three miners staggered early Sunday morning, eight hours after the explosion.
